

first love song dramatic love songs are not my style so I've been thinking for a while how else I can describe the love I feel inside

I followed every word when I was young but the love songs never stung their lyrics show poetry but to feel them I had to lose my sanity first love songs in the world they may not have the right words

are right with the wrong words loving you I got to know pain and how beauty can lay in a name you'd never hurt me, your love is sweet it's you not near, that's giving me grief waiting for you night after night does nothing against our love feeling right I'm here my love, again without you I'm waiting right here, missing you my wish to find the right words for you has left me nothing else to do course the right words for you are simply - I love you it's my first love song in the world it may not have the right words

it's my first love song in the world and it's right, it's quite right with the wrong words
