

never ever

we're living in a cosmic world and we named it planet earth we've got some really bright totally utterly blinding lights they blink, they gleam and shine they even tell us how to drink wine they sure keep us occupied and they will not be denied you'd think we've got it all but still we wonder...

will we never ever ever never truly find the things we long for never ever ever never find the place we truly belong to but then once in a while those shiny little lights go out of style It's when we realize And truly recognize things for what they are suddenly they seem far from ever being real and we learn the new deal there is an amazing truth of an inner world in peace wouldn't you just be amused if this cosmic joke is out of our reach