

possibly can

I won't play your show
course I don't want to follow
I won't play your show
just because you said so, no

I don't see the point to go with you and join the opposite of what I regard as fair and friendly, nice and smart

course I don't want to follow steps that leave me hollow your face a mask of friendliness dissolving into nothingness when you get the chance to be your very being turns all mean if that is who you really are I will go away as far as I possibly can away from you

they told me that to make it I would have to fake it if that is what I have to do I must say, well, no thank you course I do have a soul and it's become my goal to listen to my own truth and not to madmen on the loose

I say no, no, no
there's got to be another view
I say no, no, no
I won't accept that to be true what you say to do

even if it takes more time I must say that I don't mind I'd rather do it my own way than get sucked into your fool play