

old fashioned

I swear some technical devices have a mind of their own they've been invented to drive us nuts just this morning I was trying to check my mails but I couldn't even get online

I spend most of my time to regain consciousness but in this world evolved a circus I must politely dismiss I am able to find beauty in the stupid cranky human mind but for some technical devises I only see beauty before their time

call me old fashioned but I like my way
a little bit slower and I don't let your haste construct my way
call me old fashioned

my problem with all that super fast shit is that it makes me want to hit something I managed to kill a few technical things but it's not peace that it brings with it

call me old fashioned

I saw this show and it's not a lie it made me cry people with a crazy look on their face implanting in them my declined devices so while I take my time to watch a rain drop that's been colored in by the morning sun you pay the devil with a scan on your implant to buy more time but you just missed my rain drop I guess these days there's not much time for rain drops

call me old fashioned