

watching me

the rules were clear the rules were clear enough in the moment that we met

you looked at me
and I looked at you
and the rules
they were clear when we met

the game of love
is it not ever enough
the game of love
that we all play

I have to say
I have to say to you
that I never understood
why we play that game

you're watching me
I can see that you're watching me I wonder what you see
when you're watching me

all my life
I've played the game of love but enough
is enough
